FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 18, 1853. LAW REFORM.

The member from Giles, Mr. Burone, has introduced a bill to simplify the proceedeings, practice, and pleadings in the Courts of Justice, and two supplemental bills to carry out the leading idea embraced in it: that is, the amalgamation of the law and equity jurisdictions, which now exist in this State. This measure has now been before the legislature some six years or more. It was first introduced into the legislature by the Hon. Ausrin Miller, then the representative from the county of Hardeman, and chairman of the Judiciary committee, a pentleman well known for his sound practical sense and efficiency as a Judge and member of the legis-

The measure, like those which followed, was introduced as a test measure. It passed the House and was defeated in the Senate. It has since passed the lower House at two sessions, and at the last by an overwhelming vote. It was defeated by the passage of a sort of substitute, containing some of the provisions of the Reform Bill, which contained an outline of the system.

New York was the first common law and changery in 1848. Since that, some five or six other States have adopted it. In no State has it been abandoned when once tried; and in all, so far as our information extends, it has given general satisfaction. Only a short time since the mails brought us news of one of the Judges of the Supreme Court, of New York, addressing "The Society of Lawyers," in London, "fer the amendment of the law," (Lord Brougnass, in the chair.) in favor of the blended system, and testifying to its complete and successful operation in the State of New York.

We shall give a summary of the provisions of Mai. Buronn's bill in a few days, and ask for it an impartial consideration from that great profession, which exercises, and justly, so much influence in regard to every thing connected with the administration of justice. In the meantime, we give an extract from a speech delivered in the New York convention, which adopted this reform. It is from one of the ablest lawyers in the State, and will " To understand this question, said he, 'it was

and equity are, as contradistinguished from each other. In strictness, there could not be said to be any such distinct systems as law and equity. They were more properly called two distinct systems of practice; the one called the practice at law, and the other the practice in equity. By the practice at law, a man was only enabled to recover a simple money demand-with the two exceptions of ejectment and replevin. In ejectment, the plaintiff may recover land—the thing itself; in replevin, he may recover a chattel—the thing itself; but in all other respects, a party can recover in the law practice, nothing but a sum of money. And to recover that, he must adopt one or the other of five or six particular forces of action-very technical and special in form, and in which the pleadings are almost invariably fictitions, tilled with false allegations from beconventional relation to a truth, which they were watch, the forms of pleading, at common law, would allow him to waive the force, and to bring an action for the value of the watch, as upon a purchase. He could charge, that on a certain day, he sold and delivered to the defendant, a certain watch, in consideration whereof, the thief promised to pay, when he should be thereto requested, as much as such watch was reasonably worth; and that it was reasonably worth two hundred and fifty dollars,-The defendant would answer, non assempsit-that he did not so promise. Every word in the declaration would be false, and the plea would be manifestly true; and yet there was no judge in the land that would not instruct the jury, that though this was a very outrageous act, the party whose watch it was, had a right to waive the wrong, and to have twelve men say on their outlis, that the defendant did promise to pay, what the watch was reasonably worth, in manner and form as he had alleged, and that their verdict must be for the plaintiff. was a very fair specimen of the fiction which existed in the common law modes of pleading. He could consume hours, in giving similar instances, but one was sufficient. Indeed, almost throughout, the allegations in the declaration are false to every common and ordinary intent. But they were said to be technically true; because, by construction of law, the relation between the fiction in the plendings, and the truth it represented, was well understood by lawyers and judges; and between them, they could instruct the jury, to bring in such a verdict as worked out the ends of justice. 'It might be asked, why such forms were adopt-Their origin was of remote antiquity; but there was no doubt of the true reason. Jurors were originally very ignorant, and it was necessary, by special and strict forms, to bring down questions issue to a very nice and simple point. And these pleadings were modified from time to time, until they had received the character that was now impressed on them. They received their form, at that period, when a scholastic pedantry had overrun and perplexed, with its arbitrary rules, every branch of science. And hence, of course, a very special system of plendings came to be adopted. It was, however, wholly inadequate to the ends of justice; and because it was, the system of equity jurisprudence was adopted to supply its defects. That was equity practice. Under legal practice, a man could not get a discovery from his adversary; could not reach documenta; nor get specified relief, except in a few

'To obviate these defects in the law, a clerical chancellor introduced the civil law practice; a practice which, however disfigured in some places by unnecessary forms-however disfigured at this day by extreme prolixity-was nevertheless, in its own nature flexisle, highly convenient, and capable of being made to answer all the ends of justice. There was literally no form about it. The party stated his case, and asked the relief he desired; and the court, if he proved his case, gave him that relief .-Under this practice, any suit for any kind of remedy may be brought. It was always quite easy, by bill in chancery, to see on a promissory note. Yet, as the English courts of common law had jurisdiction of the action, and chancery had no jurisdiction, where | from $3.75 to $3.874, but they cannot be considrelief could be had at law, chancery was never permitted to take cognizance of such cases. Thus, from the mappropriateness of the forms of the common law, to answer the ends of justice, this equity practice was introduced. But it was not permitted to act, except in cases of necessity. Thus the two systems grew up together. And at the period of the revolution in England, they had courts of common law and courts of chancery, as we have them now; each exercising an extensive jurisdiction, and, as a legal writer of eminence, by a typographical blunder, was made to say, in regard to the court of chancery, an expensive one. "We adopted the old English forms; hence, we have at this day, these two distinct forms of practice. He supposed they could be abolished, and one form made to answer every purpose. He thought the keeping of them separate, was mischievous. In nocountry of Europe, except Great Britain, did these two separate forms exist. The chancery or civil law forms obtained throughout the continent of Europe, over the whole civilized world, wherever | 000; Ætna, Hartford, $5,000-$20,000. was administered in regular form. They obtained in Scotland, for all the purposes of remedial justice. They were used, for all those purposes, in the State of Louis ana. In some countries of Europe, where the civil forms of practice obtained, and in Louisiana, they had the trial by jury, in as full vigor as under the common law forms. That mode of trial was just as applicable, in civil controversies, in one form as in the other. The inconvenience of having these two forms of practice, lead long been felt bere. In every State in the Union, except New York, New Jersey, Maryland and nothing. On the 13th she had occasion to open South Carolina, law and equity were now adminher camphor wood trunk, and there lay her child,

"Efforts had been made, in several States, to crop since the late heavy frost.

In Great Britain, the Court of Exchequer long had

n law side; the same judges administering both bring these two forms together. An effort had been made in Pennsylvania; but there, they took a course, precisely opposite to that which good sense would have recommended. They attempted to make the fictions of the common law subserve all the ends of civil justice; and as those are utterly incompetent for this purpose, that State presented a very unfavorable specimen of the effects of endeavoring to administer civil justice in one form. His view was, that the forms of pleading used in chancery, reduced and cut down to the extent they might be, were the true forms by which civil justice might be administered, in all cases, in one court, and by an uniform mode of practice.

"It was so administered not only by all the countries of Europe, in Scotland, and in Louisiana, but in all cases of admiralty jurisdiction throughout the United States. Directly under our eyes, in the United States district court, sitting here at Albany, this mode of pleading and practice-simple, uniform, free from technicalities, which was adequate to the administration of justice in all civil cases, was in full operation. And he invited the convention to approach the framing of these provisions, with the view of carefully avoiding the perpetuation of these distinctions, and enabling the legislature to simplify and bring the two forms into one,

Nor is the view of the subject, which has herebeen presented, peculiar to the discussion which it has undergone in that State. The attention of jurists in Eugland,-the only country in Europe in which this distinction of jurisdiction exists-has been directed to its consideration. In his great speech upon law reform, Lord BROUGHAM, in discussing the subject of proceedings in the courts of justice, presented, as one of the prominent points for the consideration of parliament, the abolition of the distinction to which we have referred; and urged State which adopted the blendid system, which was the adoption of the principle, that "no party should be sent to two courts, where one is able to afford him his whole remedy; nor to a dearer and bad court, when he can elsewhere have a cheaper and better remedy; nor should any one be obliged to come twice over to the same court, for different portions of his remedy; which he might have all in one proceeding."

ADDRESS OF JOHN M. BRIGHT, ESQ, ON THE OBLI GATIONS OF AMERICAN YOUTH,

We have received a copy of the address recently delivered at Erskine College, S. C., by our distinguished *democratic friend, John M. BRIGHT, Esq. Shortly after its delivery, we copied from a South Carolina paper a highly eulogistic notice of this address, and we are gratified to find, from the copy before us, that the culogy of our South Carolina cotemporary is more than justified by the striking beauty, eloquence and originality of the address.-Mr. Bugur has few superiors of his age as a scholar and orator. Here in Tennessee, where he is best known, he enjoys a deservedly high reputation not only for the power and brilliancy of his oratorical powers, but also for the extent of his professional and literary attainments. The address before us cannot fail to make a favorable opening for him in many places where he is now comparatively unknown.

LEGAL REFORM.

Reform in the legal practice of our courts by divesting it of useless and embarrassing technicalities and reducing the whole system to one of common sense and reason, is demanded by the best interests of the people, and will, we hope, be effected by the Legislature of our State now in session.

Our present system of pleading and practice is beyond question, highly objectionable. It is full of absurd fictions, overcharged with unmeaning verbieinning to end. They bore, to be sure, a certain age, and ridiculous in antique and redundant phraseology. It is in great measure, an artificial syssupposed to represent; and which conventional re- | tem of technicalities to which every thing is made lation was perfectly well understood by learned law- to yield and which often leads to the most absurd yers, and tolerably well understood by the profes- results. Reason and common sense are sacrificed to sion generally, but which no layman would under- it, and justice is often made its victim. Hundreds For instance, if one were to rob him of his of litigants can testify to all this and more constructed. The entire system should be reformed. The old system, with all its fictions and technicalities, its redundancies and absurdities, should be superseded by one consistent with common sense and adapted to secure the ends of justice. Let the pleadings be reduced to a plain, untechnical, but full statement, by the plaintiff of the facts upon which he bases his claim for a recovery, and by the defendant, the facts relied on for defence. Abolish all those nice distinctions in the forms of actions and the merits of the case will oftener decide its fate. We will not then hear of parties going through all the courts up to the Supreme tribunal, merely to be informed, that some trivial matter not at all affeeting the merits of the case, is wrong-to be turned out of court with justice on his side, and a heavy, and often rumous bill of cost upon his back. The system now in use has been handed down to us from a remote antiquity, and is burdened with the errors and absurdities of the times in which it originated. While the hand of improvement and reform, has been busy upon everything else, this old system of legal practice, like an ancient temple, gray with the moss of centuries, stands out a solitary monument of time "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary."

A radical constitutional reform has been recently wrought, in the fundamental law of our State, by making Judges and Attorneys General elective by the people. Progress on the subject is in the right direction. The late Legislature made an effort to reform the practice in our courts; but the advocates of a thorough reform, were able to effect only a partial reform. We hope, however, that the present Legislature will take up the measure where it was left, and consummate the work. We suggest that some member who wishes to distinguish himself and at the same time, confer a benefit upon those who while they prize their rights, stand in dread of the mysteries and "glorious uncertaintes" of law, will introduce the bill, and if he is unable to draft a bill adequate to a subject so difficult and comprehensive, introduce the subject in some shape. We present these crude and hasty suggestions at this time merely to call the subject up to the view of the "assembled wisdom of the State." We may recur to the subject again. - Knorville Statesman.

Hogs IN St. Louis.-The Intelligencer of Saturday has the following:

"The first sale or contract of any note in this market, this season, took place yesterday. An engagement was made by a city packer for 1,500 head Missouri fed to be delivered before the 20th of January, at the following rates-all under 180 lbs. $3.75, and all over that weight $4 net.

As we stated yesterday, packers are in the market for No. 1 at $4, delivered this month; but as yet we have ascertained no sales that can be con sidered a criterion for early delivery. One packing establishment has between 5,000 and 6,000 con tracted for, including the 1,500 purchased yesterday. The remainder were bought several weeks since, a portion to be delivered here, and the balance on the Missouri river. These hogs cost on an average ered strictly No. 1, as they are all Missouri fed. and hogs fatted in this State do not turn out as well in veight and quality as Illinois or Iowa fed. We think there is very little doubt about the market for No. 1 opening at $4, or a shade above; at all events they can be sold now for early delivery

FIRE IN St. Louis.-At 7 o'clock Thursday night a fire broke out in the splendid block of buildings, corner of Spruce street and Levee, St. Louis. The losses and insurances are thus stated:

The insurance on the stock of Latourette & Co. (oil mill,) and on the machinery, amounts to $45, 000, divided as follows: On stock, Protection, Hartford, $5,000; Phoenix, St. Louis, $5,000; Globe Mutual, $5,000; Lumbermen and Mechanics. $2,500-Northwestern, Oswego, $2,500; Pacific, $5,000-$25,000. On machinery, Ætna, Utica, $5,000; Home. New York, $5,000; Equitable, London, $5,-

On the building occupied as the Oil Factory, the St. Louis had $4,500; the Merchants, on Kent & Obear's tenement, $4,000, and the Union, on Todd's building $4,000-making the total insurance $57.-

When ever the Major has a stranger in the neighborhood, he "opens wide and spreads himself," and with a success that leaves us nothing to desire. The folowing scene took place between the Major and Col. Peters, "a late arrival from Illinois:"

"Major, I understand from Gen. Coombs, that shortly after the Revolution you visited England; how did you like the jaunt?" "Capitally! I had not been in London five hours sefore Rex sent for me to play whist, and a devil of a time we had of it. "Rex! what Rex?"

"Why, Rex the King—George the Third. The amecame off at Windsor Castle—Rex and I played

"As we were playing the last game, Rex said in rather a familiar manner, 'Major, I suppose you know George Washington, the Father of his country. Father bed — d, says he, he was a cursed rebel, and had I served him right, he would have been hung long ago.' This of course, riled me and to that degree, that I just drew back and gave him a blow between the eyes, that felled him like a bullock. The next moment Pitt and Burke mounted me, and in less than ten minutes my shirt and breeches were so torn and tattered, that I looked like Lazarus. This gave me rather a distaste for English society, and on the next morning I set sail for America. Six weeks afterwards I landed at Washington. - The first person I met, after entering the city was O' "O! what O?"

"Why, Jim Madison. I went, played euchre for two hours, when Tom came in and insisted that I should go home with him."

"Why, Tom Jefferson, Jim, however, would not listen to it, and the consequence was that they went into a fight. In the midst of it they fell over the bannisters, and dropped about fifty feet. When I left, they were giving each other h-ll in the coal cellar. How it terminated I never could learn, as just then Martha ran in, and said I must accompany her up to Mount Vernon, to see George." "What Martna do you mean?"

"Martha Washington, wife to George, the old boy that gave Jessy to the Hessians." About here Coombs said the stranger began to discover that he was "swallowing things." The next stage that came along he took passage in it for an adjacent town. R. R. R. -No MYSTERY IN ITS QUICK ACTION IN STOP PING PAIX AND REMOVING ITS CAUSES. - If you are suffering pain, RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will instantly stop he most severe paroxysms. If Cramps, it instantly allays irritation, and imparts to every part of the system heat and health; it produces an equal circulation of blood, and infuses health and strength into the weak, disabled, lame, diseaseeaten limb and joint. If Sick Headache or Neuralgia, if Diarrhog or Rheumatisms afflict you, it will instantly stop the pain, and by taking it internally will cleanse and sweeten the Stomach, give strength and vitality to the nerves, render them terse and strong, and iron-proof against renewed attacks of pain. Radway's Ready Relief is composed of active and positive properties; nothing inert or useless, dangerous or poisonous, enters its composition. It will always elieve pain and cure its cause.

N. B .- The sick will please bear in mind that we prepare three different remedies. R. R. Relief, however quick it stops pain, will not cure all diseases. All acute pains arising from diseased action, Nervousness, Languid Circulation, Weakness, &c., it will quickly cure. But for diseases arising from Bad Blood, Radway's Renovating Resolvent is a quick, pleasant and Radical Core. It renovates the whole system, and makes the blood pure, rich and healthy. It resolves away from the solids all discased deposits. It cures old Sores, Salt Rheum Hamors, Scrofola, Syphillis, Cancers, Ulca.s, Tumors, Rickets, &c-Price of Resolvent, $! per bottle.
